

The Society of Reliability Engineers, ASQ Reliability Division and the ASQ Buffalo section 0201 are pleased to present

Diana Volkman, B.S.N. NYSDOH Health Emergency Preparedness Program
Speaking on the topic of Pandemic Readiness, H1N1 flu

Abstract: With the school season starting, and reports in the media of schools and communities experiencing high incidence of infection, this is a timely meeting. Diana will be our guest speaker, and will relate general information on the disease process with updated information on the prevalence in our community. The attendee at this presentation will also gain information on personal preparedness and protection along with an update on who in the community are most susceptible to this virus. Diana will also update the attendees on the efforts of New York State and local Department Of Health readiness plans and mitigation strategies. This update will be up to date with NYSDOL data and help the attendee understand the current state of affairs in light of the media reports.

When: September 29th, 2009

Agenda: 5:30pm social gathering

6:00pm dinner (dinner and beverage included in fee), cash bar

6:45pm presentation, concluding with open floor questions

Where: Eagle House Restaurant

5578 Main St

Williamsville, NY 14221-5497

Cost: $20 for ASQ, and SRE members in good standing, $25 for guests and friends

Registration by email is required, as there is limited seating

Fee is paid at the door, cash preferred, no charge cards please

Register early, because there are only a limited number of seats available

Registration: send an email to nsdaveauda@aol.com to reserve your seat(s)